A Self Annihilated Suitor.

By Jeannette Walden.

Copyright, 1907, by G. D. Daniels.

"A man must be willing not only to efface himself, but to blot himself out of existence if necessary, for my sake."

Jean Boyce made this statement without premeditation, driven to it by sheer ennui. It was the third time that she had been called upon to give her reason for not acquiescing in Maurice Ankeney's belief that they were made for each other, and this time she wanted it to be final.

They had just turned the corner into her home street. Jean hastened her steps as she spoke, with a little laugh of impatience.

Maurice Ankeney looked at her first with disappointment in his frank blue eyes, then speculation and at last amusement. "Could you care that much for any one?" he asked coolly.

"Oh, no!" her tone was matter-of-fact—"I couldn't! It isn't in me."

"Oh, I see. You demand it as a complementary quality in others."

He continued his scrutiny of her face as a smart trap with a man and woman in it rounded the corner. The woman, a stonish blond with a mountain of lavender plumes on her head—was driving.

The warm color that came to Jean's cheeks as she returned the man's recognition deepened as the trap rolled past, for she knew that Maurice was watching her, and she felt the new, strange intensity in his gaze.

As for Ankeney, his expression suddenly became a mixture of calmness and stern determination. "I'll do it!" he exclaimed. And for this apparently eccentric remark he was rewarded by an electrifying look of inquiry from a pair of dark eyes.

"Do what?"

"Efface—I mean extinguish—myself by setting him free for good."

The dark eyes became inscrutable.

"If you want Harold Buckley, you shall have him," he continued precipitately as they mounted the steps of his splendid machine as they went bounding over the road with a red October sunset in their faces.

Another automobile came tooting up behind them and passed them on the road. It was occupied by Madge Racer and Maurice Ankeney.

The vague depression that had been haunting Jean became poignant. She felt misused.

"Queer taste he has," she observed, with a curl of her lip. Then to hide her pique she conjured a spirit of daring.

"Oh, let's pass them! Do, do!"

Harold Buckley, ready to please her or possibly for reasons of his own, entered into the sport and put on power with great abandon.

Jean was almost delirious with the excitement of swift motion. "How jolly!" Then came a sudden jolting and a desperate adjusting of brakes. They had struck a rocky place in the road.

Before Harold could stop, Jean was almost shaken from her seat. The sun's rays, on a level with their eyes, blinded them. There was a loud report, a scream from Maurice Ankeney's auto, which they had grazed in stopping, and they toppled over into a shallow ditch, with an extra tire hanging to one of their wheels.

Jean felt a sharp pain in her arm as she picked herself up then the diversion of what followed made her forget herself. The blond heiress followed up her screams by an attack upon Harold, who had just extricated himself whole from the ditch.

"Mr. Buckley, this is a great way to drive!" she cried in her high voice with its slightly foreign accent. "Why don't you look at your road?"

But she was instantly mollified by Harold's abject apologies and shook hands with him quite sweetly.

Maurice, who had got to work without loss of time, had almost finished putting on a new tire when Jean felt so faint that she had to sit down on the grass. The pain was coming back into her wrist.

It was just then that Maurice Ankeney happened to look over his shoulder. He burst out roughly to Harold, who was still busy with the heiress, "Don't you see the girl is hurt?"

He got to her first, but in a second they were all bending over her. She assured them that it was only a sprained wrist.

Maurice gave Buckley his handkerchief, ordering him to bandage the injured arm tight, and flew back to work again at the tire.

Jean received a feverish impression through her pain that there was a parley and almost an altercation. Maurice seemed to be out of patience with everybody, and the heiress played him a close second. Jean couldn't see all the time, but she heard Madge Racer's voice grow shriller and shriller.

"No, Mr. Buckley must take the back seat with Miss Boyce. I'll ride in front."

But Mr. Buckley said that some one must stay with the disabled machine. It came hastily to Jean that he suggested Maurice as the one to do this.

At this Madge Racer insisted that they take Buckley's auto in tow.

After what seemed hours to Jean she felt herself lifted up in somebody's arms, and the next thing she knew the wind of rapid motion against her face brought everything clear to her. Maurice at her side looked back grimly over his shoulder and swore under his breath.

"All right?" he questioned, seeing her looking at him. "Guess I surprised this time. She thought I was going to wait to take Buckley in tow, with you about to keel over there on the ground."

"But I didn't keel over." Her voice sounded far away.

"Oh, no, you didn't. You're game. I'd like to see the heiress in the same fix."

There was so much of genuine admiration in his look and tone that Jean took new strength for a moment. She must have been weak, too, or she would not have said what she did next.

"Do—do you really care for her money?"

Maurice gave her a sharp, quick look. "You must be out of your head," he muttered as he bent again over the guide wheel.

When he was ready to leave her at home, after the sprain had been cared for and the color was creeping back into her cheeks, he stood over her couch and asked humbly:

"Am I sufficiently blotted out?"

"I think you are," she laughed.

"But I'd like you to be sure," he insisted.

"I am sure," declared Jean, and the look that came into his blue eyes told her that he was satisfied.

Trespass Notices.

Here is a curious notice which appears on a sign near Saddleworth church, known to fame as the burial place of the victim of the Bills of Jack's murder," writes a Manchester correspondent. "It is a bold attempt to escape the conventionality that imposes itself on other property owners: 'The law comes down with a heavy penalty on any person found trespassing on this land.'"

It is only a verbal improvement on the time honored falsehood, "Trespassers will be prosecuted." We prefer the authoritative announcement that used to appear in the grounds at a certain learned judge's country place in the last century. It ran: "Trespassers cannot be prosecuted unless they pursue game or do wilful damage. But reasonable force may and will be used to remove trespassers, and they are liable to an action at common law."

It is said that this notice, displayed at various points on the judge's frontiers, so terrorized the countryside that for years there was not so much as a beef tin or an old newspaper caught on the wrong side of the fence.

The Forlorn Man

[Original.]

This story is true. That is, the events narrated are followed as closely to the original happenings as they can be without pointing to the actual occurrence.

Matthew Tuttle was a good man, a good father and a good husband. He was comfortably off in this world's goods, happy and contented. This statement is made with the reservation that so Mr. Tuttle appeared. That he had means is certain. That he was contented and happy is assumed because he showed no sign to the contrary.

One afternoon after business hours Mr. Tuttle did not come home as usual. His wife waited dinner an hour; 9, 10 o'clock came, and still he did not come. Mrs. Tuttle supposed he had been unavoidably detained, but why had he not telephoned as usual? At 11 o'clock she called up the police headquarters, requesting that they send to certain places where her husband might possibly be found. The police were visited, but Mr. Tuttle was not at any of them.

The next morning the city was ransacked for the missing man—that is, after the usual hour for his appearance at his office. That hour came and the next, and there were no signs of Mr. Tuttle. The day passed without the slightest trace of him. His wife soon fell into a condition bordering on nervous prostration.

Weeks, months, years passed and Mr. Tuttle was not heard from. The police gave him up, considering his case one of the many in which the subject is murdered and the body successfully hidden away with his they at last told Mrs. Tuttle, and as soon as she became convinced of it herself, accepting the inevitable, she became resigned and regained her health. Her husband's estate was administered, and widow and children were found to have inherited such an income as they needed.

Five years after Mr. Tuttle's disappearance a man of forlorn mien went up to the Tuttle front door and rang the bell. Of the servant who answered the summons he asked if Mrs. Tuttle lived there. He was informed that she owned the house, but had rented it and gone to Europe with her children. The man turned away.

It was a Sunday morning, and he knocked less for awhile till, passing a church, he entered it and took a back seat.

"What's that handsome marble beside the chancel?" he asked in a whisper of one next him.

"That's the Tuttle font," was the reply. "It was placed there in memory of Matthew Tuttle, who disappeared and never was heard from."

The forlorn man made no reply and when the congregation was dismissed went out with the others and stood on the church steps as if not knowing where to go. Presently he went down into the street and boarded a trolley car. After half an hour's ride he got out at a cemetery and, entering the door, he went to a wall where he came to a lot whereon was a handsome monument. He read the inscription, "In Memory of Matthew Tuttle. The man looked at the other graves in the lot, taking in each separately, then went away.

One morning in Geneva, Switzerland, where Mrs. Tuttle had gone to put her children at school, she was walking over the bridge leading to an island in the Rhone, now and then stopping to lean over the stone guard and look into the crystal waters. After one of these pauses she raised her head to proceed. Suddenly she clutched at the stone beside her and was sinking down when a man caught her in his arms. It was her husband.

Some time passed before the astonished woman could speak, and then the idea that filled her brain was that she had been deserted.

"Where have you been?" she asked, drawing away.

"I remember," he said, placing his hand on his forehead, "a long while ago, boarding a train. Where I was going I don't know. After that I remembered nothing till three weeks ago, when I suddenly seemed to come to myself. I was in Philadelphia. I took a train for home and found you had come over here. I had no trouble in identifying myself and getting money to follow you. I have just arrived. At your apartments they told me you walked here mornings while the children are at school."

The wife looked at her husband for confirmation and saw in his forlorn, half dazed expression. Then, though not entirely unobserved, she threw her arms about him. At that moment a clock near by struck 12, and soon after three children came running to the bridge. A man none of them remembered who stood by their mother took them one after another in his arms and kissed them. Then the reunited family went away.

Later, when the children's school term was finished, the family went in the Alps for the summer. In the autumn Mrs. Tuttle's health had been restored by the invigorating mountain air, and they all sailed for America, but before reaching home the inscription had been removed from the Tuttle memorial font, and the monument in the lot in the cemetery had been removed. The man to whose memory these two monuments had been erected bids fair not to need such things for a long while to come.

It is questionable if these sudden lapses of memory have ever received their true explanation. We know that the faculty of memory is a process of delicate mechanism, but how and why such mechanism temporarily gets out of order we are ignorant.

FALSE ALARM OF FIRE.

A Peril Always to Be Met Promptly on Board Ship.

It was on board the Northern Light, says Captain Osborn in "A Sailor of Fortune," that a false alarm of fire was sounded and disaster prevented only by prompt action. A passenger looking down through the boiler hatch, saw the red painted boiler fronts and, seeing the flame-like color amid a cloud of steam, shouted, "Fire!" Immediately the whole vessel was in an uproar, and a dangerous panic was imminent. I was one of the underofficers.

The climax came when the quarter-master saw a minister of the gospel on the rail trying to lower the bow of one of the ship's boats. I ran to him and ordered him to come down on deck. The minister paid no attention, and I seized his coat tail to drag him down by force.

Perhaps it was an old coat, for the seams parted, and a second time I had the ministerial coat tail in my hands. He came down then. He was angry and was likewise a spectacle to look upon.

He started to call an indignation meeting, but most of the passengers had recovered from their fright by this time and were inclined to be merry at the reverend gentleman's expense.

He went raging to the captain, who summoned me to appear. I came, still carrying the coat tail in my hand.

"Mr. Osborn," he said, "what are your orders in case of a false alarm of fire?"

"My orders," I said, "are to stop it by any means necessary. I may knock a man down, throttle him or split him wide open."

The captain turned to the irate minister.

"Those are Mr. Osborn's orders," he said. "You are fortunate that it was only your coat that was split open."

The danger from the false alarm of fire on shipboard is second only to that of a real fire, and is always a peril to be met promptly.

SPEED OF FISHES.

Tarpon, Shark and Mackerel Are the Swiftest of Swimmers.

When scientists desire to find out how fast a certain bird flies, it is necessary only to set up poles and note by stop watches the time the bird requires to cross the interval. The speed of fishes is more difficult to ascertain. Nevertheless, as the Saturday Evening Post explains, estimates have been made showing that the mackerel, considering its handicap in size, comes close to being the champion racer.

Unquestionably the mackerel travels sometimes as fast as an express train at high speed—say, at the rate of sixty or possibly seventy miles an hour. Other things being equal, the larger the fish the faster it swims, just as the speed steamer is able to travel at a much greater rate than the little harbor tug.

Undoubtedly the energy employed by a fish of great size, such as a thirty foot shark, when traveling at its best gait is something tremendous. An ordinary tug, which represents a maximum of energy in a minimum of bulk, utilizes about 200 horsepower. Of course it is only a guess, but it would not seem to be over the mark to suppose that a seventy foot whale makes use of 500 horsepower when it propels its huge bulk through the water at a rate of thirty miles an hour.

A whale, which is a mammal and not a fish, might be compared to a freight train if the shark is a cannon ball speeding, but it can beat the fastest ocean greyhound in a speed contest.

The tarpon is probably faster than the shark. It is believed that a tarpon in a hurry can travel at the rate of eighty miles an hour.

"The Blood Is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The blood, which is also the mind and judgment are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood, thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open cutting ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by enclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 603 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

The Daily Chronicle and Index-Tribune only $9 for the two newspapers.

The Industrial Warfare In Stricken San Francisco

INDUSTRIAL warfare has San Francisco by the throat and the situation is such that words are inadequate to describe the abject condition of that city which has struggled so bravely against misfortune since April, 1906. The havoc wrought by the earthquake laid her low, but she struggled to her feet seeking to rise to her former grandeur in the face of obstacles such as no other city so situated has undergone.

The Goths and the Vandals in all their barbarianism were nothing to the modern civilized looters and disturbers of San Francisco's peace. After the common calamity which befell the city we would expect to find charity, peace, good will. Instead there has been a growing spirit of unrest, dissatisfaction, greed and graft. It has culminated in these wholesale strikes. For shame that San Francisco's own sons should tie the hands of their beloved city! The few would punish the many. If that is right which is for the good of the greatest numbers, the street car men are wrong and the company in operating their cars with men satisfied to work will benefit the city's thousands of toilers. Having agreed to the proposals of arbitration the carmen should have abided by that decision. The fact that the mode of settlement didn't permanently adjust matters or satisfy the men proves conclusively that for this crisis arbitration is no longer a remedial agency. The men should have discovered this ere they agreed to abide by it. This action now appeals to the public like a man who refuses to pay his election bet when beaten. Aside from the yellow streak on the part of the carmen which has precipitated the present trouble and reopened old sores there is the old question of the merits of their case. We must admit that the street railway employees are working for a concern which charges no more for transportation than it did when men worked for much less than the present schedule of wages. Employers in other lines of business may pay more but they raise prices accordingly. The United Railroads lost heavily by the late catastrophe but it gave the city a quick service and started with dispatch the wheels of industry in the stricken city. The employees claim the praise of running the cars at this time but the company was the real source of the benefit conferred on the public. Living, true enough, is high at present, but there is only one way to bring about a natural raise for the class of labor employed on the cars. That will come about when men for this class of work are hard to get. When forced into other lines of work the ranks will be thinned to the undesirable and the company will gladly pay more for competency. There is a big demand in other lines where wages are better, or if the same as that paid carmen, hours are shorter. Carmen are unskilled laborers requiring no apprenticeship and no implements with which to work. They toil in no sweatshop and have no slavish or dirty work to perform. Their work is clean and full of diversion in the ever shifting panorama of the day. For these advantages they must put in more time than the man who toils in the grime and sweat of the ditches. But the latter takes the dirt, the knocks and the knotted hands in preference to the work which awaits him on the cars. He prefers his leisure to the genteel occupation which requires more than an eight hour schedule. The street carmen would force an unnatural stipend from the company when they themselves could bring about a legitimate result to the very problem which will be adjusted now only until they are eliminated.

Men as We Know Them.

When the end has come for such men as Arthur McEwen and death places its seal on their life's work it puts before us the question: Was his strenuous campaign worth while? He lived a life fighting his way through the ranks of his fellows with the pen antagonistic, keenly sarcastic, unmercifully frank. Such a life as his was the natural expression of the man's nature. You could not hope for a conciliatory tone from such a temperament any more than you would look for a chirp in the lion, in whom the roar is an inborn passion. Because he gave vent to his natural feelings and wrote and edited matter which in his opinion was to better his environment, in that his life was a success. No man who represses his talents and enthusiasm and is unnatural leads a happy or successful career. Yet it seems most probable that they are more fortunate in whom quiescence, policy, reticence predominate and dictate. Such men go through life with few enemies and many so-called friends. They are at peace with the world and make no further effort to better their fellows than what they themselves reflect from their own quiet law-abiding ways. The radical men in world's history are the men to whom civilization and the evolution of governments are due. Such individuals consecrate their lives to their fellows, sacrificing self-peace to the cause. We need these staunch characters, but in the glory they are winning in the thick of the fight, the real self-enjoyment of life is lost. They never know peace or yearn for it for their blood is hot within them and they do battle for love of it.

AMEL has said that man is nothing but contradiction, and as it did appear from his observations so it does to our own. We must, however, refute some such fallacies that become dangerously popular and widely believed owing to the standpoint of accessibility which makes them pronounced and seemingly true. One of these fallacies is the general belief that men of genius are profligates.

It does not follow that men of genius are profligates any more than it does that profligates are men of genius. The prisons are full of the wicked who never had an atom of genius in their beings and the world is populated with many celebrities who are above reproach. In proportion to their greatness famous men have their faults and eccentricities exaggerated and they suffer in consequence. Domestic woes become enormities, the social glasses becomes a debauch, his flirtations spicy amours. They grow at the writing of each new biography. Those few men of genius who were really corrupt are of a very small minority. Character in a few instances has struggled through the weeds of sin and bloomed into the flower of genius, but sin has blighted the majority who might have been great and there comes to light just the exception whose freakish contradictions of character stand forth and are biasedly observed.

Try it, as it doesn't cost much to make, and is said to be absolutely harmless to the stomach.

Get the following ingredients from any good pharmacy: Fluid Extract of Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

This simple mixture is said to give prompt relief, and there are very few cases of Rheumatism and Kidney troubles it will fail to cure permanently.

These are all harmless every day drugs, and your druggist should keep them in the prescription department; if not, have him order them from the wholesale drug houses for you, rather than fail to use this, if you are afflicted.

Sprains Quickly Cured.

Galliano's Quinine Hair Tonic.

Joe Galliano, at First Street East, Pinelli building, has introduced into Sonoma a hair tonic, called Quinine Tonic, which is a wonderful remedy for the prevention of baldness. Mr. Galliano has had many years experience under a first-class physician in Europe. A great number of cases of baldness are caused by indigestion, and not as is presumed, by a disease of the scalp. It is not claimed that Quinine Tonic will grow hair on a bald head, as a number of fake tonics are advertised to do, but it is claimed and guaranteed that Quinine Tonic will stop the hair from falling out, and if used twice a week will clear the head from dandruff which will not return as long as the Tonic is used. Quinine Tonic is composed of the five following articles: Pure Alcohol, Quinine, Sulphur, Glycerine and Tumeric. If the Tonic is used and not found as represented, Galliano will refund the money. The Quinine Tonic will also save the trouble of shampooing the hair. This Tonic is for sale at both drug stores in Sonoma.

If You Don't

Emory, Texas, writes: "My wife has been using Herbine for herself and children for five years. It is a sure cure for constipation and malaria fever, which is substantiated by what it has done for my family." Sold by Simmons' Pharmacy.

Wandering Typo Goes to Jail.

Oscar Halstead, a tramp printer, looked upon the wine when it was red and it led to his undoing.
While in his cups in this town, one day this week, he purloined two bottles of whiskey from behind the Romo Hotel bar. He was seen to take the goods and, when arrested shortly afterward, the whiskey was found upon him. Halstead was hailed before Judge Small and pleading guilty to a charge of petty larceny was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail.

Hurt Internally.

Theo. Kiser, assistant to station agent Reed of the Northwestern Pacific, met with a painful accident Thursday. While handling some freight a heavy truck fell upon him injuring him internally and causing great pain. He was treated by Dr. Thomson and although able to be up and around it will be some time before he will be able to resume work.

THE TAYLOR WILL CONTEST NOW ON.

Will be Fought Out in Superior Court of Marin County.

Geo. W. Taylor, who bought the Sonoma Grove property in the western suburbs of town last year and who died shortly after taking possession, left an estate which has been appraised at $50,000.

It has been mooted about ever since his death that there would be a contest over the possession of his property and this has been verified by proceedings commenced last week in the Superior Court of Marin county to set aside his will,
which bequeaths for the most part
the handsome estate to the widow, whom Taylor had married a short time previous to his death.

The contestants claim that at the time of Taylor's death he was of unsound mind and incompetent to make a will, and that he was unduly influenced by his wife, Mollie C. Taylor. The contestants are Mrs. Kate Cashin, Mrs. Nellie Williamson and Annie C. Pendergast, sisters, and A. C. Elliott, a half brother of the deceased, and they are represented by the best legal talent in the State, Messrs.
Knight & Hagerty, R. H. Countryman, Henry Eichhoff and Long & Partridge. Arrayed on the side of the widow and against the above
array of legal talent are Gavin
McNab, E. B. Martinelli and Pringle & Pringle.

time Mrs. Batchelder has had pos-

SONOMA'S FREE
PUBLIC LIBRARY.

It is Now an Accomplished Fact and Should be Encouraged by
The People.

Six years will soon have passed since the organization of the So-nom Valley Woman's Club. During these years several committees,
or section leaders for various lines
of work, have been appointed, one of them being for the establishment and conducting of a Free Public Library. It took about two years of thinking and planning to accomplish it, but at last, a room for the purpose was rented of the Odd Fellows at $5 per month, for the payment of which several people subscribed for a small monthly sum which has been collected by some member of the committee.
At first, cases of books were loaned and exchanged by the California
Woman's Club of San Francisco.
Some books were donated, others
were loaned by a few of our citizens. Some of the Library Committee volunteered to open the library for two hours six evenings
in the week and for two hours Wednesday afternoon and it has been mostly the same ladies
through summer's heat and winter
storms that have done this work,
three of them having held themselves responsible for their own evenings during this time. Cases of books are being now borrowed and exchanged from the State Library at Sacramento. Two years ago a garden party was given for the library and a number of books was purchased with the proceeds,
and at two shower parties that were given many books were contributed. As denoted by the cards, 218 people are at present drawing books from the library and the demand for books is getting to be much greater than the ability to supply, and just how to meet this demand for more books is a problem the committee is called upon to solve, and it was suggested that the best way at this time might be to make a statement of present conditions and needs and ask the people of the town and also of the valley generally to aid the committee in continuing this benefi-cent work. The time for placing before a community the value of a Free Public Library is past, it being a well understood fact that its value is second only to that of the public school.

New Naturalization Laws
are More Stringent.

Under the new naturalization
law no aliens have been admitted to citizenship in this country up to the present time. The application of a former subject of King Humbert of Italy to become a citizen of the United States was to have been heard in the Superior Court Monday, but owing to the inability of the U. S. District Attorney to be present in court the application went over.

The law regarding the admission of aliens to citizenship is a very stringent one now. Applicants have to undergo a searching examination in court and the oath taken is a very strict one.

There are several applicants on the list for examination at the present time. Names have to be posted in a conspicuous place in the office of the County Clerk for three months and a detailed description of the applicant is also given.

O. B. Shaw Stricken With Paralysis.

Mr. O. B. Shaw, one of Sonoma Valley's oldest and most prominent farmers, was stricken with paralysis last Monday, and now lies at his home in the southeastern suburbs of town in a very precarious condition. Mr. Shaw, who has passed three-score-years-and-ten,
the allotted span of life, has been in poor health for several months.

ANOTHER ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY.

Frank M. Burris, Banker,
Applies for a Franchise
for New Company.

Frank M. Burris, President of the Sonoma Valley Bank, through his attorney, J. W. Oats of Santa Rosa, applied to the Board of Supervisors of this county last Monday for a franchise for conducting electric current for lights, power and other purposes to be introduced in every town and hamlet in Sonoma county. The franchise asked for commences at the Mendocino county line and takes in all the northern portion of this county to Santa Rosa. From that point it reaches out to Kenwood, Glen Ellen, Sonoma and thence on to all points to the Napa county line to the eastward of this place.
The granting of the franchise will mean much to the upbuilding of the county and will furnish competition in the matter of supplying lights and electric power for manufacturing purposes.

The public is assured that the company will begin the work of construction on the lines of wire for transmitting the current as soon as the franchise is granted.
While it is not definitely stated, it is believed that Mr. Burris is actually for the people who are constructing the mammoth storage reservoirs in Mendocino county for the purpose of generating electric current there and who are tunnel-ing through the mountains to secure a source of water from Eel river.

WILLIS C. GOODMAN.

Had Lived in the Sonoma
Valley for Over Half a Century.

The old pioneers of Sonoma are slowly but surely joining the majority in the great beyond. As the years come and go the silent reaper is decimating the ranks of the pioneers of this valley—those that came here in the fifties—and now
but few remain.

W. C. Goodman, on Sunday last, after a brief illness, died at his home on Broadway, at the age of 78 years.

The deceased, who was a Kentuckian, came to this valley over half a century ago and located at Embarcadero, where he engaged in farming. Several years ago he sold his farm and with a portion of the proceeds built a handsome residence on Broadway, where he was living with his family at the time of his death.

Mr. Goodman years ago was initiated into Temple Lodge No. 14, F. & A. M., of this place, under whose auspices the funeral was held Tuesday afternoon.

The deceased leaves a widow and two daughters and numerous other relatives residing here and elsewhere. His passing creates a big void in the ranks of the old pioneers of the Sonoma Valley.

Singular Accident.

John Yenni, the well-known Swiss dairymen, lessee of the Pope ranch below Embarcadero, met with a singular accident last Wednesday morning. While in the act of hanging a milk pail on a swinging hook he slipped and fell and in some unaccountable manner the sharp prong of the hook entered his nose and split it wide open its entire length. Notwithstanding the painfulness of the injury he finished milking his cows, after which he drove into town for surgical treatment, losing a large quantity of blood before arriving at Dr. Leix's office. The doctor took eight stitches in the injured nasal appendage. At latest accounts Mr. Yenni was doing nicely although the wound is an ugly one.

The Striking Stonecutters.

The situation between the striking stonecutters employed on So-nom's new City Hall and Contractor Newman remains the same as last week. All work on the building has ceased and the striking stonecutters and masons, together with other mechanics employed by the contractor, if we except two or three, are idle with no prospect of their demands being acceded to.

Free Saturday Night Hops.

Phil Rossi of the Swiss-American Hotel, El Verano, will inaugurate a series of free Saturday night dances in the fine large hall
attached to his popular resort.
These dances will be given every Saturday night during the season.
The music will be furnished by Schellbach's orchestra of San Francisco. Everybody attending will be made welcome.

The Chance of a Lifetime.

CHOICE GOODS at LOW PRICES

The Sonoma Racket Store

A musical entertainment will be given at Mayflower Hall on Friday evening, May 17th, for the benefit of the Glen Ellen Congregationa Church.

Owing to the pressure of other business only the title of a pamphlet asking the Dunbar Club to aid in having laws passed for a State Sanitarium for Consumptives was read at its last meeting. No one will deny that such an asylum, if properly managed, would do a great deal of good, providing there were proper laws passed compelling individuals having the disease
to seek its shelter.

Glen Ellen, May 9, 1907.

Will of J. A. Barber.

The will of J. A. Barber, who recently died here, was filed for probate in the Superior Court of this county last Tuesday. The value of the estate is $3,785, most of which is bequeathed to the widow, Robt. A. Poppe is the attorney for the estate.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work.
The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Relief from Rheumatic Pains.

Among the troubles that beset mankind rheumatism is one of the most aggravating.
"I suffered with it for over two years," says Mr. Roland Curry, a patrolman of Key West, Fla. "Sometimes it settled in my knees and lamed me so I could hardly walk, at other times it would be in my feet
and hands so I was incapacitated for duty.
One night when I was in severe pain and lame from it my wife went to the drug store
here and came back with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I was rubbed with it and found the pain had nearly gone during the night. I kept on using it for a little more than two weeks and found that it drove the rheumatism away. I have not had any trouble from that disease for over three months."

How She Got A Position.

(Original.)
Edward Thatcher was station agent on the Union Pacific railroad at a place far out on what thirty years ago were called "the plains." The only houses at this stopping point for trains were the station and Thatcher's dwelling, a few hundred yards away.

Thatcher's daughter, Molly, sixteen years old, was anxious to learn telegraphy. Her father encouraged her, and as soon as she knew her telegraphic letters he ran a wire underground from the station to the house and put in a key for her to practice on. At first he used the regular key at the station, but Molly's line was an independent one, and she was able to call him at any time. In summer, having little to do, he would sit at the station door trying to keep cool. That he could chat with his well beloved daughter without inconvenience he implied upon with more implicit confidence than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. During the third of a century in which it has been in use, people have learned that it is the one remedy that never fails. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

Hon. D. E. McKinlay will deliver the Memorial Day oration in Sebastopol on May 30th.

A Brave Man.

Nicolas, Chevalier d'Assas, a French captain in the Auvergne regiment, born at Vigan, in the Languedoc, while making a reconnaissance during the night of Oct. 15, 1793, at Klosterkamp, in Westphalia, met a column of the enemy which was advancing in silence to surprise the French army. He was ordered to keep silent or else they would kill him. D'Assas at once cried out, "A moi Auvergne—the enemy is here!" He was killed on the spot.—Bouillet's Dictionary of History.

Near Glory.
"Most any of us," remarked Uncle Gilderoy Skite, "kin reach fur enough to touch the hem of the mantle of fame. Abraham Lincoln used to spit rails fur a man that a cousin of mine only twice removed on the mother's side afterward stole a dog offen."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Remember that the money you squander won't work for you.
We are always too young to have known better if our mothers are the judges.
Men do a lot of things just as foolish as having their clothes button in the back.
Dreaming of what you would do if you had a large income is probably about the slowest way to get one.
The man who falls in his efforts to do something well is still more of a success than the one who never tries.
A mother worries if her daughters are not invited to parties and then sits up and worries because they are out late when they are invited.
Ever occur to you that you ought to dress up more and brush your clothes oftener? Most people as they become old neglect their personal appearance too much.—Atchison Globe.

Jury Friendships.
"The eleven men in the world for whom I entertain a feeling of peculiar friendliness are those with whom I served on a jury once," said a broker. "There isn't any other human tie just like that existing among jurors in a criminal case. There we are, twelve men, all perfect strangers to each other, with different tastes, temperaments and habits, picked up and bound together for days in the most trying circumstances. The hardships, the tragic phases of the situation, reveal us in a new light. Hitherto unsuspected traits crop out. We argue, we quarrel, we sympathize, we make up, in a manner that would surprise our closest friends. The responsibility that we share sets up apart from everybody else and establishes a bond of interest and sympathy that is pretty sure to last."—New York Sun.

Do You Love
your baby? You wonder why he cries. Buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and he will never cry. Most babies have worms, and the mothers don't know it. White's Cream Vermifuge rids the child of worms and cleans out its system in a pleasant way. Every mother should keep a bottle of this medicine in the house. It is fear never enter her mind. Price 25c. Sold by Simmons Pharmacy.

A Missed Wife.
A lady complained to the Widespread Magistrate the other day that her husband "wiped his feet on her and walked over her." It is a case of the incompatibility of temperament. He should have married a door mat.—London Globe.

Stop Grumbling

If you suffer from rheumatism or pains for Ballard's Snow Liniment will bring quick relief. It is a sure cure for Sprains, Rheumatism, Contracted Muscles and all pains, and within the reach of all. Price 25c, 50c, $1. C. R. Smith, Tenaha, Tex., writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for years and have found it a fine remedy for all pains and aches. I recommend it for pains in the chest." Sold by L. S. Simmons.

Lest He Forget.
"I am afraid, darling, you will very soon forget me."
"How can you think so? See, I have tied two knots in my pocket handkerchief."—Mezzendorfer-Batter.

Good Words for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

People everywhere take pleasure in testifying to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Edward Phillips of Barclay, Md., writes: "I wish to tell you that I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My little girl Catherine, who is two years old, has been taking this remedy whenever she has had a cold since she was two months old. About a month ago I contracted a dreadful cold myself, but I took Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was soon as well as ever." This remedy is for sale by L. S. Simmons.

$8.50 PUNCTURE-PROOF TIRES ONLY $4.80 PER PAIR

Regular Price $8.50 per pair. To introduce We Will Sell You a Sample Pair for Only $4.80 (CASH WITH ORDER $4.55)

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES. Result of 15 years experience in tire making. No danger from THORNS, CACTUS, PINS, NAILS, TACKS or GLASS.

Serious punctures, like intentional knife cuts, can be vulcanized like any other tire. Two Hundred Thousand pairs now in actual use. Over Seventy-five Thousand pairs sold last year.

DESCRIPTION. Made in all sizes. It is heavy and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures without allowing the air to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have only been punctured once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting quality being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. That "Holding Back" sensation commonly felt when riding on asphalt or soft roads is overcome by the patent "Buckskin Weave" tread which prevents all air from being squeezed out between the tire and the road thus overcoming all suction. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.80 per pair. All orders shipped same day letter is received. We ship C.O.D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

We will allow a cash discount of 5 percent (overly making the price $4.80 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel plated brass hand pump and two Sampson metal puncture closers on full paid orders (these metal puncture closers to be used in case of intentional knife cuts or heavy gashes). Tires to be returned at OUR expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination.

We are perfectly reliable and trustworthy to us in an instant. Ask your Postmaster, Banker, Express or Freight Agent or the Editor of this paper about us. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, run faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give your order. We want you to send us a small trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.
